A wide-angle photograph of a massive waterfall cascading down a steep, rocky mountain face. The water flows in multiple parallel streams, creating a complex pattern of white spray and mist against the dark, wet rock. The surrounding terrain is rugged, with patches of green vegetation clinging to the slopes. In the lower-left foreground, a person wearing a red jacket sits on a rock, providing a sense of scale to the enormous waterfall. The sky above is a bright, clear blue.
