

Support for Community Economic Development!

Development through partnership

The Department of Economic Development & Transportation (ED&T) contributes funding to every community each year to help municipal governments with their community economic development programs.

This financial assistance ensures that every community is able to employ and provide training for a Community Economic Development Officer (CEDO).

Assistance is also provided for community planning and small-scale community economic development projects.

1. Contact your Community Economic Development Officer (CEDO) or the ED&T Community Operations office in your region about your idea.

Building capacity

The department provides financial support for projects undertaken by societies, non-profit and municipal organizations that improve the community's capacity for economic development.

The Nunavut Economic Foundations Fund provides funding to activities that will develop sectors of our economy. The department also provides funding for key community infrastructure for economic development, including the construction of roads to local resources.

Ask about:

- Policy on Program Partnerships, Community Capacity Building Program
- Strategic Investments Program's Nunavut Economic Foundations Fund
- Community Access Roads Program

2. Create a business plan. Outline what you want to do, how you're going to do it, and prepare a budget. (Help is available.)

3. Complete the application form(s) and make sure you have included all the information requested.

4. Submit your completed application(s) to your CEDO and make sure it is sent to ED&T.
