APPLICATION FOR FUNDING DIG Program

Mineral exploration support funding is available to assist with costs associated with:

- Exploration drilling service contracts, drilling equipment rental, labour directly attributed to drilling activities, core logging, sampling, sample shipping and laboratory assay work,
OR
- Bulk sampling activities, including materials and supplies, shipping of excavation equipment, labour directly related to the collection of material comprising the bulk sample, shipping and transportation of the bulk sample, processing and laboratory costs applied to the bulk sample.

Application to the DIG Program must include the complete drilling or bulk sampling exploration plans intended by the company for the permitted project.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to discuss their exploration activities with community representatives closest to the project site(s) to identify potential concerns and benefits. (Companies may also apply separately to the Community Engagement Support Program for financial assistance to conduct engagement activities).

Priority will be given to applications that maximize the use of Nunavut goods and services, including direct employment opportunities for Nunavummiut.
